AN ECOLOGIST'S PERSPECTIVE

Saving Ku-ring-gai's Environment

Michael Sheather-Reid is a leading restoration ecologist and environmental consultant with 20 years experience, having planted over 370,000 trees, restored and created over 100 wetland ecosystems and now specialising in large scale restoration.

Currently Ku-ring-gai's environment is under stress. Why? Forced government urban densification policies, weakening of Commonwealth and NSW biodiversity protection and environmental legislation, and inadequate recovery and restoration plans.

Hear Michael speak on why a new era of conservation management is urgently needed if we are to save Ku-ring-gai's environmentally sensitive lands.

ADMISSION IS FREE AND ALL ARE WELCOME TO ATTEND
